

Bio

Engineer-turned-artist Krandel Lee Newton developed the Original Butt Sketch® concept in Dallas' Historic West End in 1987. The sketches became a big hit and Newton and his artists received offers to be flown around the country to make special appearances at colleges, trade shows, conventions, parties and private receptions.

To date, over 250,000 people have gotten their backsides drawn. Although the "Butt Sketch World Tour" concept was initially a little tongue in cheek, most major U. S. cities, parts of Canada and Europe have experienced the World Tour.

The artists have sketched the likes of Bill Gates, Warren Buffett, Alex Trebek, Leeza Gibbons, John Goodman, Danny Glover and Vanessa Williams, along with sports luminaries Emmitt Smith, Troy Aikman, Joe Theismann and Johnny Bench.

The Original Butt Sketch® has been featured in The Wall Street Journal, Washington Post, Parade and Maxim magazines. The Sketch has also been seen on 'America's Funniest People,' CNN, 'World News Tonight,' 'Headline News,' and 'Just For The Record' (Australia).
